Reducing stigma - Everyone's business

Ms Barbara Hocking

Since 1995, Barbara has been Executive Director of SANE Australia – the national mental health charity. SANE works for a better life for Australians affected by mental illness, through education, applied research and campaigning for improved services and attitudes

Barbara represents the community perspective on a wide range of committees and advisory groups. With special interests in suicide prevention and stigma reduction, she is a member of the Australian Suicide Prevention Advisory Council and the National Media and Mental Health Group.

Previously SANE's Education Coordinator, Barbara has previously worked in Health Promotion and Education in Australia, the United Kingdom and Papua New Guinea.
